

NEW COURSE - SPRING 2008:

Bio2106
”Microscopical Imaging Techniques”

Course overview:
During lectures, seminars and practical exercises, an overview over the history of microscopy and standard as well as modern ”cutting edge” applications of light and fluorescence microscopy will be given. Scientific presentation of results will be practiced through poster presentation of course results in a small workshop.

For more information contact:
Anne Høydal: anne.hoydal@ib.uit.no
Kirsten Krause: kirsten.krause@ib.uit.no

English Tripod Microscope made and sold by John Yarwell in the 1680s. The microscope is constructed of lignum vitae, pasteboard, and gold-tooled leather.

