INDIANA UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Skolepenger:	US$ 2453 pr. semester (ca. NOK 15 600)
Krav til studiebelastning:	15 credits pr. semester
Semesterinndeling:	Høst: august til november

Utdrag fra universitetets hjemmeside:

Indiana University of Pennsylvania is recognized for its combination of academic excellence with affordable prices. IUP provides an intellectually challenging experience to nearly 14,000 students at the university's three campuses. IUP's primary campus is located in Indiana, Pennsylvania, a safe, friendly community in easy reach of a wide range of outdoor activities.

Academic offerings include more than 100 undergraduate majors with a variety of internship and study-abroad programs, more than 40 master's degree programs, and eight programs leading to the doctoral degree. Our range of opportunities and quality of instruction are characteristic of a big university, yet at IUP, close, one-to-one relationships develop within the teaching framework, and a strong sense of community prevails.

IUP has been recognized by numerous publications for its high academic standards and competitive costs. The university is consistently chosen by the Princeton Review for inclusion in its Best Colleges publications. The university's Mission, Values, and Vision statements further illustrate our commitment to high-quality education.

IUP is located in Indiana, Pennsylvania, a safe, livable town in the Allegheny foothills about an hour northeast of Pittsburgh with a population of about 30,000. Indiana is a place where baseball games, friendly shops, and gracious, tree-lined streets seem totally appropriate.

Indiana has a rich heritage, with plenty of early 19th-century buildings gracing the downtown area. But Indiana is also a forward-looking, contemporary center of commerce and tourism.

The area offers a wealth of outdoor activities, too. IUP, through its Student Cooperative Association, runs its own recreational park near campus – nearly 280 wooded acres that include nature trails, a Parcourse, a fishing pond, and picnic and camping shelters – or you can head for the hills on your own. The Student Cooperative Association also maintains a sailing base at nearby Yellow Creek State Park, where members of the IUP community may rent sailing equipment. Three ski resorts are within an hour's drive from campus, as are numerous golf courses.

PACIFIC LUTHERAN UNIVERSITY

Antall studenter:	3500 (150 internasjonale)
Skolepenger:	Ca. US$ 11 000 pr. semester (ca. NOK 70 000). Det gis et stipend på $ 7500 pr. student ("Nordic Grant")

Utdrag fra universitetets hjemmeside:

Pacific Lutheran University was founded in 1890 by a group of mostly Norwegian Lutherans from the Puget Sound region. They were led by the Reverend Bjug Harstad, who became PLU's first president. These pioneers recognized the important role that a Lutheran educational institution on the Western frontier of America could play in the emerging future of the region. They wanted the institution to help immigrants adjust to their new land and find jobs, but they also wanted it to produce graduates who would serve church and community. Education-and educating for service-was a venerated part of the Scandinavian traditions from which these pioneers came.

Today Pacific Lutheran University is a comprehensive university with an enrollment of about 3,500 students. A dynamic academic program features five professional schools and selective graduate programs that maintain a strong liberal arts emphasis at their core. PLU is the only Northwest university to be listed every year within the top 15 Western region universities in the "Best Colleges" survey, published annually by U. S. News & World Report.

Whatever your area of interest, PLU will provide you with a well-rounded education: the liberal arts are combined with professional programs; study and classroom activity complemented by hands-on experiences in the professional world.

Located in suburban Parkland, Wash., PLU has a picturesque 126-acre campus, truly representative of the natural grandeur of the Pacific Northwest. The campus is six miles south of Tacoma, 40 miles south of Seattle, and 20 miles north of Olympia. Mount Rainier and the Washington coast are within two hours of campus

Washington state is a great place. Experience the 75-degree sunny summer days and the mild winters. Head east to the ski slopes, west to the water or north to Seattle. You can make the short drive to Tacoma, or stay right where you are—in PLU's surrounding Parkland community. There are very few limitations to what you can do in the Pacific Northwest.

Utdrag fra universitetets hjemmeside:

Linfield is one of the oldest colleges on the West Coast, tracing its roots to an institution established in 1849. The Baptist College in McMinnville, chartered in 1858, was later named McMinnville College and finally, in 1922, Linfield. The college is affiliated with the American Baptist Churches USA.

Linfield College is a private, independent, comprehensive institution, nationally recognized for its strong teaching faculty, outstanding academic programs and distinctive international emphasis. Linfield has a challenging and exciting academic program that features a broad liberal arts core and an atmosphere in which there is genuine concern for individuals and their progress. It offers 39 majors and three undergraduate degrees: bachelor of arts, bachelor of science and bachelor of science in nursing.

McMinnville Campus

The main campus is located in McMinnville, a community of 28,000 people, an hour from both Portland and the Oregon Coast. The campus consists of 45 buildings on 193 acres of green lawns and groves of trees. It has a unified look deriving from its brick buildings in modified Georgian style.

Portland Campus

The Portland Campus, home of the Linfield-Good Samaritan School of Nursing, was established in 1982 through a partnership agreement with Good Samaritan Hospital and Medical Center, now part of Legacy Health System. The Portland Campus is located in historic Northwest Portland adjacent to the Legacy Good Samaritan Hospital and Medical Center. Today, the School of Nursing has the largest four-year nursing program located at one site in Oregon. A program in health sciences is also offered exclusively on the Portland Campus.

Linfield students are involved in a wide variety of activities including 39 clubs and organizations, 11 national academic honoraries, four media organizations, eight Greek organizations and 13 music groups. They have an opportunity to fill approximately 400 leadership positions. The Associated Students of Linfield College provides social, cultural and recreational activities as well as a chance for leadership and development. The many lectures on campus provide opportunities for interchange with nationally and internationally known figures.

Concordia is a large, urban university, in Montreal, Quebec, Canada. The university has two campuses, set approximately 7 km apart: Sir George Williams Campus is in the downtown core of Montreal, and Loyola Campus is in the residential west-end of Montreal. They are connected by a free shuttle-bus service for students, faculty and staff.

Concordia is proud of its tradition of accessibility and concern for the individual. We value inter-disciplinary approaches to learning, and we are dedicated to offering the best possible scholarship, research and training for the real world.

Concordia's more than 180 undergraduate programs are divided into four Faculties: Arts and Science, Engineering and Computer Science, Fine Arts, and the John Molson School of Business.

In addition, the School of Graduate Studies offers more than 70 programs leading to Master's and doctoral degrees, as well as a variety of graduate diplomas and certificates for professionals seeking to upgrade their knowledge and skills.

Concordia considers the city of Montreal to be an invaluable asset to the university experience. It has a population of three million, and is one of the oldest cities in North America and one of the world's largest French-speaking cities. While French is the predominant language, there is also a large English-speaking population. Many ethno-cultural communities also help maintain a vibrant, cosmopolitan atmosphere.

Concerts, films, plays, art shows and athletic events are plentiful, and there is a 1000-acre mountain in the heart of the city, with parks, jogging and bike paths available.

You can also retreat to the nearby Laurentian Mountains or the Eastern Townships. Once there, you can do everything from windsurfing to skiing (alpine, as well as cross-country), or just explore the beautiful countryside. It's all within an hour or two of Montreal.

The University of Sunderland is a dynamic, modern university with high standards of teaching and research and a growing reputation as the university for enterprise, employment and opportunity. Sunderland has an international outlook and students from across the globe are, increasingly, choosing to study here.

Our reputation for high quality research was confirmed by the results of the 2001 Research Assessment Exercise (RAE, December 2001), which identified Sunderland as the best 'new' university (former polytechnic) in the UK for its quality, quantity and range of research.

The university is one of the region's largest employers with over 1,500 staff. Utdrag fra universitetets hjemmeside:

The Nelson Mandela Metropolitan University (NMMU) was established in January 2005 through the merger of the University of Port Elizabeth (incorporating Vista University) and Port Elizabeth Technikon, and is the largest higher education institution in the eastern and southern Cape, with some 20,000 students enrolled. Quality academic programmes, developed to create leaders in a vast array of professions, are offered by NMMU's seven faculties: Arts; Business and Economic Science; Education; Engineering; Health Sciences; Law; and Science.

NMMU is one of the most culturally and linguistically diverse universities in southern Africa. The University empowers its students with top academic and internationally recognised qualifications. The NMMU is an engaged and people-centred university that serves the needs of its diverse communities by contributing to sustainable development through excellent academic programmes, research and service delivery. Our vision as a values-driven university is to be the leader in optimising the potential of our communities towards sustainable development in Africa. Having attained our vision we will be able to contribute to the transformation and development of our communities in terms of the full spectrum of their needs.

Inspired by the leadership qualities of Nelson Mandela in the transformation to democracy in South Africa, we are guided by the following eight core values and principles in our own transformation at NMMU: transformation for equity and fairness; respect for diversity; people-centeredness; student access; engagement; excellence; innovation; and integrity.

NMMU consists of seven campuses, five in Port Elizabeth and two in George. The main campus is in the coastal city of Port Elizabeth, on the south eastern coast of South Africa, and is the biggest campus in the southern hemisphere. It enjoys a unique location in a nature reserve close to the beach. Eastern Cape is the third largest province and Nelson Mandela's home province. Port Elizabeth, and its neighbouring towns of Uitenhage and Despatch, form a metropole known as Nelson Mandela Bay. Port Elizabeth boasts a variety of interesting architectural and historical sites, beautiful beaches, excellent sporting facilities and a vibrant cultural life. It is often referred to as the "friendly city". It is set along the shores of Algoa Bay, which has 40 kilometres of magnificent coastline and protected sandy beaches. It is an ideal water sport centre – swimming, snorkeling, body surfing, yachting, windsurfing, kite surfing, jet-skiing, fishing and scuba diving.

Utdrag fra universitetets hjemmeside:

The University of the Western Cape (UWC) was founded in 1960. By July 2005 its student population had reached 14,685, including 1,276 international students from more than 60 countries. UWC has linkages with leading universities in Africa and around the world. Researchers also benefit from internationally funded projects and contracts. The University is situated in Bellville South, about 20 kilometres from Cape Town and five kilometres from Cape Town International Airport.

Undergraduate and postgraduate programmes are offered in seven faculties: Arts; Science; Community and Health Sciences; Dentistry; Economic and Management Science; Education; and Law. There are also centres, institutes, units, schools and divisions which include the schools of Pharmacy, Nursing and Public Health.

The University of the Western Cape has a history of creative struggle against oppression, discrimination and disadvantage. Among academic institutions it has been in the vanguard of South Africa's historic change, playing a distinctive academic role in helping to build an equitable and dynamic nation. UWC's key concerns with access, equity and quality in higher education arise from extensive practical engagement in helping the historically marginalised participate fully in the life of the nation.

In 1959, Parliament adopted legislation establishing the University College of the Western Cape as a constituent college of the University of South Africa for people classified as "Coloured". The first group of 166 students enrolled in 1960. What they were offered was limited training for lower to middle level positions in schools, the civil service and other institutions designed to serve a separated Coloured community. In 1970 the institution gained university status and was able to award its own degrees and diplomas.

Protest action by students and black academic staff led to the appointment, in 1975, of the first black Rector. The new, freer climate under the leadership of Professor Richard E (Dick) van der Ross was hospitable to intellectual debate and internationally respected scholarship.

In its mission statement of 1982, UWC Objectives, the university formally rejected the apartheid ideology on which it was established, adopting a declaration of nonracialism and "a firm commitment to the development of the Third World communities in South Africa." In 1983, through the University of the Western Cape Act of 1983, the university finally gained its autonomy on the same terms as the established "white" institutions.

The Universidad de los Andes starts the new millenium as a center of recognised academic excellence in Colombia and Latin America. Since its foundation in 1948, the University has taken up a commitment to the formation of an intellectual, technical and humanist elite, which has played an active role in the production of thought, science and progress in this country. Los Andes has also brought in major scientific and technological advances recently developed around the world. Today, it has taken up the leadership of a mission to face the challenges of the internationalisation of our economy, and of technical, social and cultural changes now occurring around the world.

The University is an autonomous and independent institution which fosters pluralism, diversity, dialogue, debate, criticism, tolerance and respect for ideas, beliefs and values of its members. Also, it seeks academic excellence, and offers its students a critical and ethical formation designed to strengthen their awareness of their social and civic responsibilities, and their commitment to the analysis of the problems of their country, and the quest for its solutions. For this purpose, Los Andes develops and implements innovative methods in teaching and research, designed to make students the main agent of their own formation, and to solve problems presented to them with creativity and responsibility.

Los Andes offers 28 undergraduate courses and 61 graduate and postgraduate courses, of which 25 are master's degree programmes, 4 PhD programmes and 32 specialization programmes. Our Faculties: Faculty of Architecture and Design, Faculty of Arts and Humanities, Faculty of Economics, Faculty of Engineering, Faculty of Law, Faculty of Medicine, Faculty of Sciences, Faculty of Social Sciences and School of Management.

Due to the qualifications, quality and the proportion with the students, the teaching staff is our greatest strength. There is an average of 15 students per lecturer. This ratio guarantees the best possible educational process. Given the University's policy for academic excellence, we can call upon the best professionals in Colombia to become a part of the teaching staff or research staff, in teaching Departments, or in Research Centers. 148 full time teaching staff have doctorates. This fact shows that the teaching staff have a strong interest in research and their permanent training in teaching activities. Through audio-visual support, technical and multimedia programs for teaching, they have arranged to incorporate such tools into their class work.

Utdrag fra universitetets hjemmeside:

The Royal College of Bahia, or the Colégio do Terreiro de Jesus, as it was better known, was founded by the Jesuits in the sixteenth century and was the institute that gave origin to the Federal University of Bahia. The School of Surgery of Bahia, founded in 1808, subsequently gave rise to the School of Medicine, built on the same site. The School of Pharmacy was founded in 1832 and the School of Dentistry in 1864. The nucleus of the future Federal University of Bahia was being gradually formed with the addition of the following institutions: the School of Fine Art in 1877, the Law School in 1891, the Polytechnic School in 1896, the School of Economics in 1905 and the School of Philosophy, Science and Letters in 1941. In 1946, these units were finally linked to form the Federal University of Bahia.

From that date onwards, intense efforts were made to create new courses and to found and restructure new schools and supplementary institutions to meet the scientific and cultural needs of the local society. The work was initially coordinated by Edgard Santos, dean of the university from 1949 to 1961. During this period of intense activity, the following installations were added: the Central Teaching Hospital, the Schools of Architecture and Education, the School of Music and Scenic Art, the School of Geology, the Institutes of Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, Biology and Health Sciences, the Center for Afro-Oriental Studies and the Museum of Sacred Art.

Today, the Federal University of Bahia is made up of 29 teaching units and 19 supplementary institutions. Its academic activities include 55 different undergraduate courses and 58 post-graduate courses at masters and doctorate level, as well as research and community-related activities.
