

Learnsapes: a multidisciplinary approach to learning

Seminar Friday 6th October 2006

Preliminary programme

Dean/head of institute: Welcome speech

Guest speaker:

Keitaro Ito, Ph.D., Associate Professor, Kyushu Institute of Technology, Japan: How to create an outdoor schoolground – and how it affords activity.

Ingunn Fjørtoft, Ph.D., Associate Professor, Telemark University College: The affordance of landscapes: How environments invite physical activity and promote motor development in children.

Robert Larsen, Assistant Professor, Telemark University College: High speed in the outdoors! How outdoor landscapes afford physical activity.

Roar Kråkenes, Assistant Professor, Telemark University College: Science in outdoor education, options and practice.

LUNCH

Geir Grimeland, Assistant Professor, Telemark University College: The Art of Bouldering.

Jostein Sandven, Assistant Professor, Telemark University College: The creative outdoors: Arts and crafts in outdoor education.

Håkon Engstu, Assistant Professor, Telemark University College: Outdoor education in curriculum development: a historical perspective.

Arne Marius Samuelsen, Ph.D., Associate Professor, Telemark University College: Esthetics in indoor landscapes: does it matter?

Kari Carlsen, Head of Institute of Arts, Crafts and Folk Culture: How to cooperate in learning landscapes: Inter- and intra cooperating ideas - a multidisciplinary approach.